

DHCC and HA DPGs are soliciting co-editors for an update to the Academy's Nutrition Care of the Older Adult reference publication.

Responsibilities include:

- Assist in reviewing the vision and purpose for the book, including the proposed table of contents
- Recommend, facilitate and assist in recruiting contributing authors
- Make assignments to contributing authors (with support from DPG and Academy) and consult with authors on chapter outlines and content
- Receive draft manuscripts and review content; if acceptable, submit to Academy for peer review
- Receive compiled peer review comments from the Academy; review and modify as needed, and guide contributing authors in addressing comments
- Receive and review revised manuscript; if acceptable, submit to Academy for publication
- Contribute some of the book's content: write introduction/preface and serve as lead or co-author on one or more chapters
- Review and answer queries from copy editor; review page proofs prior to publication

Preferred Qualifications:

- Experience writing for peer-reviewed journals and/or books
- Highly organized with ability to collaborate and communicate with multiple authors at various stages of development and revision
- Passion and experience relevant to the topic
- Advanced degree and/or specialty certification preferred (varies by topic)
